A museum exhibit dedicated to Leonardo da Vinci. The room is dark, with large, illuminated panels displaying his works. On the left, a large, detailed drawing of a man's face with a beard is shown. To its right, a panel features a close-up of the Mona Lisa's face. Further right, a full-length reproduction of the Mona Lisa is displayed. In the background, a panel shows handwritten text, and another panel on the far right depicts a mechanical device, possibly a flying machine. Several visitors are seen in silhouette, walking through the exhibit and viewing the displays. A large, white, curved structure, possibly a model of a flying machine, is visible on the left side of the frame.
